

Privacy

Red Bell Real Estate's Privacy Policy

- We do not sell information about you to others.
- We use reasonable efforts to protect the security and confidentiality of information about you.
- We share information outside of our company only when necessary to administer products or services we or our subsidiaries or business partners may provide, when we have your permission, when required by law, or as otherwise described in this Privacy Policy.

This Privacy Policy describes how we handle your personal information for our services available through www.Redbellre.com (the "Site"). By accepting the Privacy Policy and the Terms of Use in registration, you expressly consent to our collection, storage, use and disclosure of your personal information as described in this Privacy Policy. This Privacy Policy is effective upon acceptance for new users and is otherwise effective beginning 30 days after first posted on the Site.

Please read the following policy to understand how your personal information will be used while you take advantage of the services we offer. This policy may change from time to time as new features are added to the Site and as we incorporate suggestions from our users. We will post an amended Privacy Policy prominently on the Site so that you can always review what information we gather, how we might use that information, and whether we disclose it to anyone. Please check the Site at any time for the most recent version of our Privacy Policy. We may amend this Privacy Policy at any time by posting the amended terms on the Site. All amended terms automatically take effect upon acceptance for new users and otherwise 30 days after they are initially posted on the Site. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact us.

Our Privacy Policy discloses the following information:

1. What personally identifiable information is collected and how it is used
2. What general information is collected and how it is used
3. With whom personally identifiable information is shared
4. User choices regarding collection and use of information
5. User access and ability to update information
6. Security measures used to protect personally identifiable information

What personally identifiable information is collected and how it is used

Red Bell Real Estate collects personally identifiable information from you in order to respond to your requests for our products and services and to be consistent with the requirements of the different Multiple Listing Systems (MLS) of which we are participants. Depending on the services you request, this information may include, but is not limited to, your name, address, ZIP Code, email address, telephone number, a login name, password, whether you plan on buying, selling or both buying and selling property, information about the properties in which you are interested, your home search criteria, and the number of searches you make.

You will be asked to provide personally identifiable information at various places on our Site and through off-line communications with us, including, but not limited to, the following:

- Registration — When you register to use our Site, we collect your first and last name, email address and, optionally, your phone number. You will also select a Login Name. We will assign you a Temporary Password and then allow you to change the Password to one of your preference. Your Password should never be shared with anyone.

- Search for Homes — In order to help narrow your search for a new home, we collect information from you regarding the type of home you want, including, but not limited to: price range, number of rooms, square footage, and property type. Since Red Bell, at this time, does not generally represent Buyers in real estate transactions, we will likely refer you and your information to a local real estate Agent who can serve your needs.
- Contact Red Bell — Should you be interested in contacting an agent to discuss selling real estate, we offer you a way to directly communicate with us from our website. When doing so, we may collect your first and last name, your email address, your preferred telephone number, your preferred method of contact, and the metropolitan area in which the property you plan on selling is located. We may also collect the following optional information, including the street address, city, state and ZIP Code of the property you plan on selling.
- Make An Appointment — If you proceed to this step, we will collect information in order to have a local real estate Agent (with whom we will co-list your property) contact you to discuss the selling of your property. The information we collect includes your first and last name, email address, telephone number, preferred method of contact, the metropolitan area in which the property you are selling is located, the street address, city, state and ZIP Code of the property you are selling, and various times that would be convenient for you to meet with an Agent.
- Email — Throughout your use of the Site, you will communicate with us. We will use your email address and all of the information you submit in order to provide you with guidance, suggestions and service in your efforts to sell your existing home or in your search for a new home.
- Contact Us — We collect an email address in order to respond to your questions or suggestions.

Please note that our Site is a general audience web site. You agree and acknowledge that our Site is operated for individual users who are at least thirteen (13) years old and that we never request personally identifiable information from anyone under the age of thirteen (13). You represent and warrant that you are thirteen (13) years old or older and shall not provide any personal information in violation of the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 6501 through 6506. If you know that your child has provided personally identifiable information and such child is under the age of thirteen (13), you should immediately contact us at 877.500.1415, or at the address listed below to update your information.

What general information is collected and how it is used

When you visit Red Bell Real Estate, our computer system, like most, will automatically log some basic information about you and your computer, including, but not limited to, your IP address, operating system and browser software. We use this information for routine maintenance and to gather broad demographic information to help us decide how better to implement our Site.

We use "cookies" to store non-personally identifiable information to track users as they move through our Site and on to other web sites. Those cookies may trigger beacons to other web sites to prompt them to show users advertisements solely for Red Bell Real Estate's services. If a user obtains a cookie from a lead generation site and then visits and confirms registration on our Site, the cookie may trigger a beacon to the lead generation site in order to confirm lead conversion. Similarly, if a user comes to our Site through a link on another web site, Red Bell Real Estate may be required, as part of our agreement with that site, to provide that site with email addresses for the purposes of email suppression or email address invalidation. If users do not accept cookies, they will not be able to register on our Site or re-log in as registered users.

With whom personally identifiable information is shared

We recognize that the information we collect from you may, in itself, or when tied together with other information, identify you as a specific individual. Your account information and personal data is maintained by Red Bell Real Estate in order to fulfill our legal and regulatory requirements and to provide you with the information, products and services you have requested or which we believe you may want in connection with your home ownership. As a general rule, Red Bell Real Estate will not disclose your personal information to any third party except with your permission or under special circumstances where your personally identifiable information is protected, as discussed below.

By requesting information or services from Red Bell Real Estate, one of our local real estate partners or other companies specified by you, you give Red Bell Real Estate permission to transfer your information, as deemed necessary by us, to the appropriate parties, such as the title insurer, homeowners insurer, lender, appraiser, escrow or settlement provider, home warranty company or inspector you select, so that they can fulfill your request and provide you with the services you require. Your information may also be transmitted to other parties in a transaction or their agent. Our Agents are employees of Red Bell Real Estate. All personally identifiable information you provide to Red Bell Real Estate will be made available to your Agent and other Red Bell Real Estate employees with a need for the information. Generally, your Agent will coordinate the disclosure of your information to third parties. This will be done in much the same way as a traditional real estate agent shares information with third parties. For example, your Agent may disclose your name and the address of the property you want to purchase to a building inspector when you request our assistance in arranging an inspection of the property.

We may also share your information with our subsidiaries and with nonaffiliated companies with which we or our subsidiaries have marketing arrangements to help coordinate the services that they may provide to you in connection with your home ownership including mortgage services, homeowners insurance services, home warranties and title insurance.

The various lending institutions, title companies, homeowners insurers, home warranty companies and other service providers you choose for your real estate transaction may each have their own privacy policies governing how they handle your personally identifiable information. Their privacy policies may allow disclosure and use of personally identifiable information not allowed by Red Bell. It is your obligation to review such privacy policies and withhold information if the terms of the privacy policies are not acceptable. Red Bell Real Estate accepts no responsibility or liability for third party privacy policies or the actions of any third party with respect to your personally identifiable information.

We may share your information with companies that assist us or our subsidiaries with essential services such as data processing or servicing accounts, as well as with companies used to update and verify the accuracy of your personally identifiable information in our records or those of our subsidiaries. Their privacy policies may allow disclosure and use of personally identifiable information not allowed by Red Bell. It is your obligation to review such privacy policies and withhold information if the terms of the privacy policies are not acceptable.

Red Bell Real Estate does conduct research on our users' demographics, interests and behavior based on the information provided by the user and from our server log files. This research is compiled and analyzed on both on aggregated and individual bases. For example, we may review how many users are women, or the average price range of our users. Additionally, we may analyze the behavior of a particular user. If you came to our Site through a link on another web site, Red Bell Real Estate may be required, as part of our agreement with that site, to provide that site with aggregated data. The privacy policies employed by those web sites may allow disclosure and use of personally identifiable information not allowed by Red Bell. Again, it is your obligation to review such privacy policies and withhold information if the terms of the privacy policies are not acceptable.

Red Bell Real Estate may disclose personally identifiable information in certain circumstances when we, in our discretion, have reason to believe that disclosing such information is necessary to contact, identify or bring legal action against someone who may be intentionally or unintentionally causing injury to or interference with our rights or property, our users, our employees or anyone else who could be harmed by such activities. We may disclose personally identifiable information when we believe in good faith that the law requires it and for administrative or other purposes that we deem necessary to maintain and improve our products and services. We may disclose personally identifiable information to a multiple listing service which provides us with listing data if, the multiple listing service suspects that a person is involved in breach of security of the data or a violation of our Terms of Use or the multiple listing service's rules. Additionally, we may disclose personally identifiable information in response to a valid subpoena or court order.

Our Site provides links to other web sites. Please be aware that when you click on one of these links, you are going to another web site even though the Red Bell Real Estate logo, banner, or tool bar may still be visible. Information you enter on these other web sites is being collected by that site, not Red Bell Real Estate. Their privacy policies may allow disclosure and use of personally identifiable information not allowed by Red Bell. We encourage you to read the privacy statements of these linked sites as their privacy policy may differ from ours. It is your obligation to review such privacy policies and withhold information if the terms of the privacy policies are not acceptable.

User choices regarding collection and use of information

On occasion, we may use your email address to send you communications with information, valuable tips, or services and product information that we believe may be of interest to you. If you do not want to receive such communications from Red Bell Real Estate, simply contact us at VOWOperator@redbellre.com or click on the "opt-out" link contained in the email.

You are free not to provide any of the information requested on the Site. However, any information you provide is subject to this privacy policy, and certain information may be necessary or required by law in order for you to obtain some services provided by Red Bell Real Estate. Therefore, if you choose not to provide the requested information, you may not be able to access certain Red Bell Real Estate services.

Your Red Bell Real Estate account can be deleted or de-activated at any time by contacting VOWOperator@redbellre.com. However, you will not be able to access any of the products and services offered by Red Bell Real Estate if you choose to delete your account. When you delete or de-activate your account, Red Bell Real Estate will no longer disclose any of your personally identifiable information to nonaffiliated third parties, except as required by law. For example, some loan programs are governed by state and federal law and require the disclosure and retention of certain information regarding loan applicants. Please note that Red Bell Real Estate will never share or sell your information without your permission, except as described in this Privacy Policy.

User access and ability to update information

You may edit your preferences and the information you have provided at any time by sending an email to VOWOperator@redbellre.com or mail to Red Bell Real Estate, Inc., 1415 S Main Street, Salt Lake City, UT 84115. You may also visit www.redbellre.com. You will need your Login ID and Password to access your account information online. If you have lost your password, you may request a new one by sending an email to VOWOperator@redbellre.com.

Security measures used to protect personally identifiable information

We restrict access to the Red Bell Real Estate server and the personal information we store there by using a log-in process. When you enter the area of the Site that is designed for account holders only, you are required to provide your selected Login Name and Password. Your password should never be shared with anyone. Red Bell Real Estate will never ask you for your password in an unsolicited telephone call or email.

Email is an important communication channel for our online customers. Email sent to our Agents, Buyers or Sellers are carefully routed to the intended party. Unfortunately, no email transmission over the Internet is guaranteed secure. While we strive to implement reasonable procedures to protect your information, Red Bell Real Estate cannot guarantee the security of any information you transmit to us from our Site, and you do so at your own risk. Once we receive your transmission, we use reasonable efforts to ensure its security on our system. Finally, we store all data on our system in a password protected database system, which is protected by our corporate firewall.

If you have any questions regarding this Privacy Policy, or privacy issues in general, please feel free to contact us.